Valerie was soft spoken and never really complained about much when I would see her. I thank God for the moments we shared as a family and most of all her love for my uncle. May God be with you Uncle Terry and the entire family.

Valerie, my beautiful sister I'm truly going to miss you. I feel so blessed to have so many good memories of you. I grabbed my cell phone to call you today, then remembered you were gone, my big sis has transitioned. I hoped we'd have more time together and could grow older together and talk about our new aches and pains, then laugh at each other. You and Terry were going to move close by, once he retired, so we could see more of each other, but God had other plans, he wanted you home with him. I know we'll see each other again and I shall rejoice, but in the mean time, I'll think of you every day and sometimes I may cry, but I'll wipe my tears away and do my best to look after everyone, until we meet again. Your loving sister forever. Angela
